My dear Mr Ginnah.

On Friday I wired you informing the arrival of Sir Akbar, with request to see him. On behalf of the telegraph office I was informed that the wire was sent to you by post to Northam, as you were not living in Bombay.

Sir Akbar would have been on first and second of May in Bombay. I am very anxious to know whether the wire was delivered into your hands and you are was able to arrange to see him.

The situation here is becoming worse,
as the Government is not able to announce their reforms in early dates.

Excuse me for my wrong English and handwriting.

Yours sincerely.
